Narrative:

The following is a synopsis of the information provided by Mr. Rakestraw in an e-mail correspondence.

He and two fellow FAA inspectors examined N529FM, an Acroduster II SA750, recovered by Atlanta Air Salvage on April 1, 2020. They established flight control continuity and the results of their observations are consistent with all other indications that the aircraft was in a condition that it could have been controlled at the time of the accident.
