

EDGAR YAP-Galley Cook, Crew No. 936-Cabin C-1103 emergency position-firefighter. He had worked on another cruise line, he said that the drills and training were similar. Both said that the firefighting training explained them how to use firefighting material, rather than had them practice.

He said that the drills were conducted regularly. He went up to the higher up deck after going to his primary station. He noted that drills conducted on the Norway were comparable to those that had been conducted on Carnival vessels.

The final two were on the fire fighting and they did as they were told. Both waited for instructions from their leader, and both responded when they heard the Code Bravo.