

5-24-15

Today there was a tragic incident that resulted in the loss of a friend and co-workers life. While unloading pannels a series of events led to the crushing of our foreman. At this time I haven't had proper time to properly gather my thoughts. I would appreciate getting away from work to get my emotions in check before going into further detail about today's tragic event.

~~Ray [redacted]~~