

At the time of the incident I was not directly next to or looking in the direction of the exact scene. I was looking towards the transit because I noticed it wasn't put away and that the truck was still running and thought I should probably shut it off. Then I heard a yell from behind me, so I turned around and didn't see Warren, but when I walked over I saw him on the ground and that's when I asked if there was anything I could do and they told me 911 had already been contacted.
