This is a summary of a phone conversation with the Pilot's wife, Kim Carter.

She last talked to Mark (the Pilot) before he departed on the flight. Mark had called to check up on her as she was not feeling well and wanted to see how she was doing. She described his mood as upbeat. I asked about his health, and she said Mark had started working out about 10 years ago and was in the best shape of his life. He was working out every day to include playing tennis 4 to 5 days a week. He was sleeping well, No concerns or issues with his health. He was, "high energy." He flew his helicopter once a week and sometimes more. He loved the helicopter, and it flew great.

There had been a big storm prior to the flight that left fresh snow on the ski hills. This flight was to fly up to a ski resort and go downhill skiing with a friend.
