

From:

Date:

Sunday, April 14, 2019 1:52:58 PM

I was on my way back to Bethel from Aniak about 800 feet. Right when I passed Tuluksak about maybe 10 miles southwest or so the engine started to sound different and I looked at my oil pressure it was slowly getting out of the green arc. My rpm started to drop down to 2000 rpm. Then I looked at my oil pressure again it was in the yellow arc. When it did that I slowly turned towards Akiak while turning the prop all of a sudden came to a complete stop and the engine died on me. So I turned into the wind and glided to the tundra meadow. And we landed safely on the marshy area and that's where we ended up in. After we landed I shut off everything fuel selector off as well.