Drone accident

To whom it may concern,

I observed a Drone Demonstration where the drone lost control and would not land. The drone hovered about 6 feet off the ground and would not land or turn off. The operator took hold of the landing legs and tried to hold the drone and operate the controller at the same time, unsuccessful. He then asked someone to hold the drone landing legs, without success. The operator took back hold of the legs and reached up to manually turn off the drone and he [accidentally] touched the props and cut his hand.
