Daniel P. Boggs
Air Safety Investigator
National Transportation Safety Board
Office of Aviation Safety - Eastern Region

Date: On or about, Oct 25, 2015 at 10:00 EST
Person(s) Interviewed: Andrea Oakpark-co-pilot
NTSB Case Number: ERA15LA288

Narrative:

Ms. Oakpark was interviewed by telephone.

Ms. Oakpark stated she was in the aircraft performing the checklist when the pilot entered the cockpit and asked if she wanted to fly in the left seat, She stated she did and they switched seats. They started the airplane and noticed ground crew motioning to them that the cargo door was open. The captain got up and went to the back to close the door. When the captain came back to the cockpit the resumed the checklist when she heard the captain say what are you doing and they looked up and the airplane was rolling forward. Then they thought they ran over a chock and tried to apply brakes but the plane would not stop. She applied the brakes with no result, she grabbed the parking brake and reset the brake at the same time the captain shut down the engines and the plane stopped. The captain got out of the plane and noticed they ran over an ATV and had a fuel leak.
